Mr. Newman:

A personal check from you will be fine.

I am more a collector of exnumia than a numismatist. My collecting interests are varied...Love Tokens, Worlds Fair, Civil War Tokens, Trade Tokens (especially from Cincinnati), and all types of Cincinnati related collectibles. I have also been active in the Cincinnati Numismatic Association for about 30 years. My consignor was very happy to say the least!

Regards,
 Emmett

Dear Emmett M. Ey: The purchase of the American brass counterfeit coin detector over EBay seems to have made everyone happy. I would like to know anything your friend knows about its background or history. Today is a bank holiday here and I am mailing you a check for $1,006 as you indicated. It will take excess time to get a certified check tomorrow so I hope you do not mind. Please feel free to wait until our check clears before shipping if you wish. If you must have a certified or cashier's check instead I will comply. The shipment goes to Eric P. Newman, 6450 Cecil Ave, St. Louis, MO 63105. I notice that the seller has an identity as a "tokenguy". Is he a numismatist as I am? The reason the price was so high is that it was a nice item and I really wanted it. Someone else must have had similar hopes. If your friend has a happy heart instead of a coronary I think he has no claim for malpractice against you. My family lived in Cincinnati for many years before coming to St. Louis. We have a well known civic minded and wonderful traveler friend in Cincinnati by the name of Oliver Gale and perhaps you have heard of him or know him. Eric P. Newman

Dear Emmett: The scale arrived today in great shape and I am enjoying it. You will remember that I requested the owner to tell me its background. Did his great grandmother use it for a paper weight or did he find it in his garage or did he buy it at a flea market? You do not have to give me his name if he prefers but since the item is from about 1851 I would like to know who the maker was or where it came from. Thanks for any help you can give me. If he had a coronary because of the price it will help him recover. Eric

You are the high bidder on Brass Coin Scale
 $1-$20. Please tell me why this went so high!!
 I was selling this for a fellow collector who will probably have a coronary when I tell him the closing bid. Insurance and Priority Mail charges will be $17 plus your bid of $989 for a total of $1006.00. I would prefer a Cashiers Check or Bank Money Order for the payment.
 Please e-mail your information so I can prepare the package.

Emmett: Thanks for your reply to my inquiry. Is the former owner of the scale a coin collector, an antique collector, a flea market shopper, a dealer, a squirrel, a little old lady who lost her memory, an inheritor or what? Can he or she estimate how long it was owned? It sounds like a preference to remain rather anonymous. Eric

Mr. Newman:

The consignor of the Coin Scale has no idea where he acquired it. He can't provide any information. Sorry.
 Emmett

Well, Emmett, I chuckle when I see your amazement at the value of this item, since I have the same reaction. You're selling on behalf of a buddy, and I'm buying on behalf of my father. He collects such things, so I'll ask him to explain why this one went so high. I think it has something to do with the condition it's in.

I believe my father sends a check for such items. He will get his copy of this email tomorrow and will probably let you know then. If, as your screen name indicates, you are a numismatist, you may be familiar with him, but I'm sure he has no problem waiting if you need to hold the item until his check clears.

Please send the item to him at:

Eric Newman
6450 Cecil Ave.
St. Louis, MO 63124

Thanks.

Andy Newman
